PUBLIC DISCOUNTS ON GOODS, SERVICES, PUBLIC WINS, PRIZES, PREMIUMS, BONUSES AS «PERMITTED» GIFTS FOR POLICE OFFICERS

Paper examines the issues of obtaining public discounts on goods, services, public wins, prizes, premiums, bonuses as «permitted» gifts for police officers. The concept of «public discounts on goods, services, public wins, prizes, premiums, bonuses» used in anti-corruption legislation to define «permitted» gifts – police officers can receive gifts they receive as public discounts on goods, services, public wins, prizes, awards, bonuses. On the basis of an analysis of international legislation, which establishes the main anti-corruption standards that Ukraine has to achieve; it is substantiated that the rules that would determine the limits of «permitted» gifts for special entities and include the possibility of such entities to receive public discounts, services, public wins, prizes, awards, bonuses aren't contained in these regulations. It is emphasized that the national legislator introduced this norm without the need to comply with international anti-corruption standards.

It is stated that the improvement of anti-corruption bans and restrictions on police activities regarding the receipt of «permitted» gifts in the form of public discounts on goods, services, public wins, prizes, premiums, bonuses is possible by developing and enshrining in anti-corruption legislation the concepts of «public discounts», «public prizes (premiums)», «bonuses» and the exclusion of references to prizes as «allowed» gifts. In national law, these concepts are usually used as identical.

The use of the terms «publicly available discounts on goods and services», «publicly available wins (prizes)», «premiums», «bonuses» in the current legislation is studied.

It is noted that legitimately police officers can win prizes only if they win the state lottery in accordance with the published conditions of its holding, i.e. – individual wins are excluded, but wins can be obtained as a result of actions not defined by law as gambling. While the concept of «bonus» has no clear definition in law or in the scientific field and is multifaceted, which can create problems in qualifying the actions of special entities and their detection, so it is advisable to enshrine in anti-corruption legislation. The concept of bonuses as a type of «permitted» gifts provided for in anti-corruption legislation is analyzed.

The amendments to the anti-corruption legislation for the consolidation of these concepts are suggested.

Keywords: corruption, anti-corruption legislation, permitted wins, prizes, premiums, bonuses, public discounts, services.
