THE ROLE OF INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS IN THE FIELD OF PROTECTION OF INTERNALLY DISPLACED PERSONS

The article examines the role of international organizations in the field of protection of internally displaced persons through the prism of their practical and rule-making activities.

It is established that the international protection of internally displaced persons is carried out through the activities of international organizations and international acts adopted by them in the field of protection of internally displaced persons. The activities of such international organizations as the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe, international humanitarian organizations (International Committee of the Red Cross and Red Crescent, Danish and Norwegian Refugee Councils) were analyzed.

It was stated that the established international legal framework for the protection of internally displaced persons has an extensive system, the provisions of which cover a wide range of issues of concern, both of general importance and directly for individual countries.

It is emphasized that these acts are international standards in the field of protection of internally displaced persons and guidelines in the formation of state policy in the field of protection of internally displaced persons. The UN Guiding Principles on Internally Displaced Persons, 1998, is an international legal constant that allows states to build their legal framework for the protection of the rights and freedoms of internally displaced persons. The current legislation of Ukraine generally complies with the provisions of the UN Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement.

The issues that need to be improved in order to ensure the protection of internally displaced persons were considered.

Keywords: internally displaced persons, international protection, international cooperation, international legal framework, UN Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement.
